HUMANITY POWER 501(c)(3) FORMED TO TEACH UNITY THROUGH HUMANITY Ending the 'isms that discriminate at the heart of new non-profit

[CONCORD, Ca] — Humanity Power™ announces its formation as a 501 (c)(3) non-profit dedicated to ending the 'isms that harm humanity. The organization hosts virtual educational workshops, organizes community activities, and raises funds through products in an effort to educate people about humanity through an anthropological lens.

Humanity Power transforms belief systems and behavioral response patterns in individuals interested in learning how to end racism, sexism, ableism, ageism, colorism, and classicism. It presents online workshops and interactive programs designed for individuals, positive influencers, and organizations including education, law enforcement, community initiatives and more. Humanity Power also works in partnership with its sister company, Culture Circle, to help companies unify their employees through a deeper understanding of how to “End the ‘Isms” in human and societal interaction.

“The power of humanity is to interact with humanity. This is as true for children as it is in the business world,” says Charisse Fontes, the busy mom of five children and founder of Humanity Power. “When companies create space for humanity instead of limited and limiting culture programs, they unify people and lay the foundation for a positive experience that embraces and empowers individuality. Inclusion, Diversity, and Equity programs only work if your culture is built on treating all people with dignity and respect. Humanity Power is passionate about seeing humanity in all people and teaching others to do the same.”

As a 501(c)(3), Humanity Power donates funds to feeding the community and unhoused, sponsoring community clean up events, expanding the Humanity the Manatee children's book series, and creating educational content and outreach programs.
